

MANOS PLITSIS

PHD CANDIDATE IN INFORMATION
TECHNOLOGY,
RESEARCH ASSOCIATE

INSTITUTE FOR LANGUAGE AND SPEECH
PROCESSING, ATHENA RESEARCH CENTER

Manos Plitsis is an associate researcher at the Institute of Speech and Language Processing of the Athena Research Center in Athens, and is currently a PhD candidate at the National Kapodistrian University of Athens. He received his diploma in Applied Mathematics and Physical Sciences from the National Technical University of Athens, and his Master's degree in Computer Science, Signal Processing and Acoustics from the École Normale Supérieure Paris-Saclay and Sorbonne University/ IRCAM. His research interests include machine learning and signal processing techniques applied to language, speech, music, and sound in general.